

ESSAY ABOUT INDIA OF MY DREAMS

We have provided below short and long essay on India of my dreams in English. These India of My dreams essay are written in simple English so that they could.

Our India should be the corruption free nation. It is sad to see how genius minds from the country fly abroad to seek employment opportunities and contribute to the technological and industrial advancements of those countries rather than contributing to the development of their own country. So everyone should give to the respect to farmers as they are professionals. Lastly, I want India to be a country where women are treated with respect and are given equal opportunities as men. Our India should be developed in an all right way, which we see in the dreams. It is the backbone of the economy. I dream of India where people are not discriminated based on their caste and religion. We have dreamed to the Indian as the sweet little golden bird. The opportunities are either limited or do not pay enough to the deserving candidates. He was the right commander for making the India as the peaceful place. Cleanliness It is the great proverb that, cleanliness is next to godliness. Every human being has to do the respect of women and seniors. The transport system is also excellent in the India. The government must go a step further to ensure that no child in the country is devoid of education. These man-made boundaries of demarcations would be broken down 21st century India would an India where everyone, irrespective of caste, creed, and religion, would have equal opportunities to live and work. Everyone should do the equal respect to all. But from her side, she will never wage war on other nations. Dowry-system and bride burning would be regarded as primitive happenings as also child marriage, caste discrimination and other such age-old customs. More attention to the growth of agriculture and industries. With the spread of education, check on the rising population would, naturally, follow. It would be a place where the betterment of the country would be the sole agenda of the government. It would be a place where women safety would be of utmost importance. Gender Discrimination India of my dreams would be a place where women are given due respect and treated as being equal to men. The employment is the large demand for individuals because it is one of the important sources to get the basic needs in the life. Conclusion: This is about my dream of India. The industrial products would be sent to other countries, and this will make our economy sound. Almost girls should have the self-defense power to protect themselves. About fifty percent of the Indian population are quite illiterate, and they all live a miserable life. Respects of religion Every people should step for make the country as dreamed and it should be wants of everyone. Related Essays and Articles:. A sound financial plan will certainly better the economic condition of the ordinary men. People are also looked down upon because of their caste and religious preferences in many parts of the country. India should always stand on the top in every field. Those living in poverty or below poverty line particularly overlook the importance of getting educated. Let my country awake from its present slumber and rise up to great heights of glory and prosperity. I dream of India as a fully developed country that does not only excel in the aforementioned fields but also continues to keep its cultural heritage intact. In the land of my dreams, income in our countrymen would as the people in the developed nations of the world. It has also seen a boom in various industries over the past few decades. Please find below the additional set of 10 sentences on India of my dreams which are written in a very simple language, easy to comprehend and can be helpful for you in exam, quizzes, and debates, group discussions, speeches, paragraphs, articles, essay etc. Further, there would also be matchless progress in the field of agriculture and industry. Girls are not encouraged to go for higher studies. This often leads to unrest in the country. I also want India to see advancements in the field of science, technology, agriculture and education in the times to come. It boasts of a rich, variegated cultural heritage.